Guidelines for finding the right size

Measuring the dog

1. The back length should be measured from the withers (not the collar) to the base of the tail, while the dog is standing in normal position.
2. The neckline measurement should be taken at the base of the neck, this being the widest point of the neck. The neckline of an overall can be larger than the circumference of the dog's neck, as it can be adjusted to fit a smaller neck.
3. The chest measurement should be taken at the widest point of the chest, from behind the front legs. To ensure sufficient freedom of movement, the chest of an overall should be 5–20 cm/2–8" wider than the dog's chest.
4. The front leg length should be measured from the bottom of the rib cage along the inner side of the leg to the wrist bone. The legs of an overall are of an appropriate length when they reach down to the dog's forearms.

Note: If the purpose of the overall is to protect the fur of a long-haired dog, the legs of the overall can be longer than listed above. In this case, however, the overall should only be worn when the dog is on a leash or under its owner's supervision.

Measurements for the new Outdoors overalls

The goal of the Hurtta product development team is to create ever better fitting and more practical products for an increasing number of dog breeds. We also aim to simplify the sizing system for dogwear and to make it clearer, to ensure that you will find the correct size class easily and quickly.

Our new overall measurement practice divides dogs into four categories on the basis of their height and body type. The first two digits of each size class indicate the back length of the overall, while the following letter combination indicates the dog's body type.

To make your choice easier, the packaging of the overalls also displays a list of breeds that each size class is recommended to.

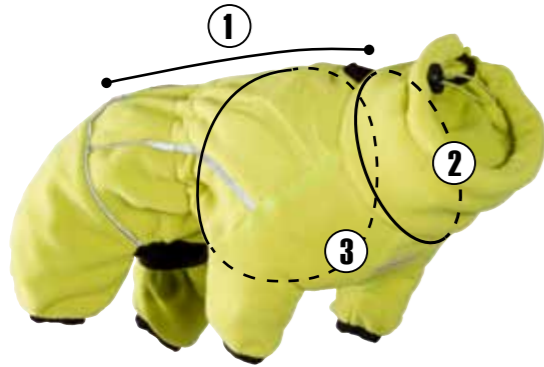

Size XS	Breeds with short legs and long backs, with a back length of 30–45 cm/12–18"

Materials and care instructions

Hurta Houndtex®

The revamping of the Hurta collection will bring improved material properties. Thanks to persistent product development efforts, Hurta's Houndtex® laminated outdoor fabrics will be even smoother, softer and quieter in use than before. This significantly improves the comfort of use of rainwear and thermal garments, especially for small dogs and dogs unaccustomed to wearing garments.

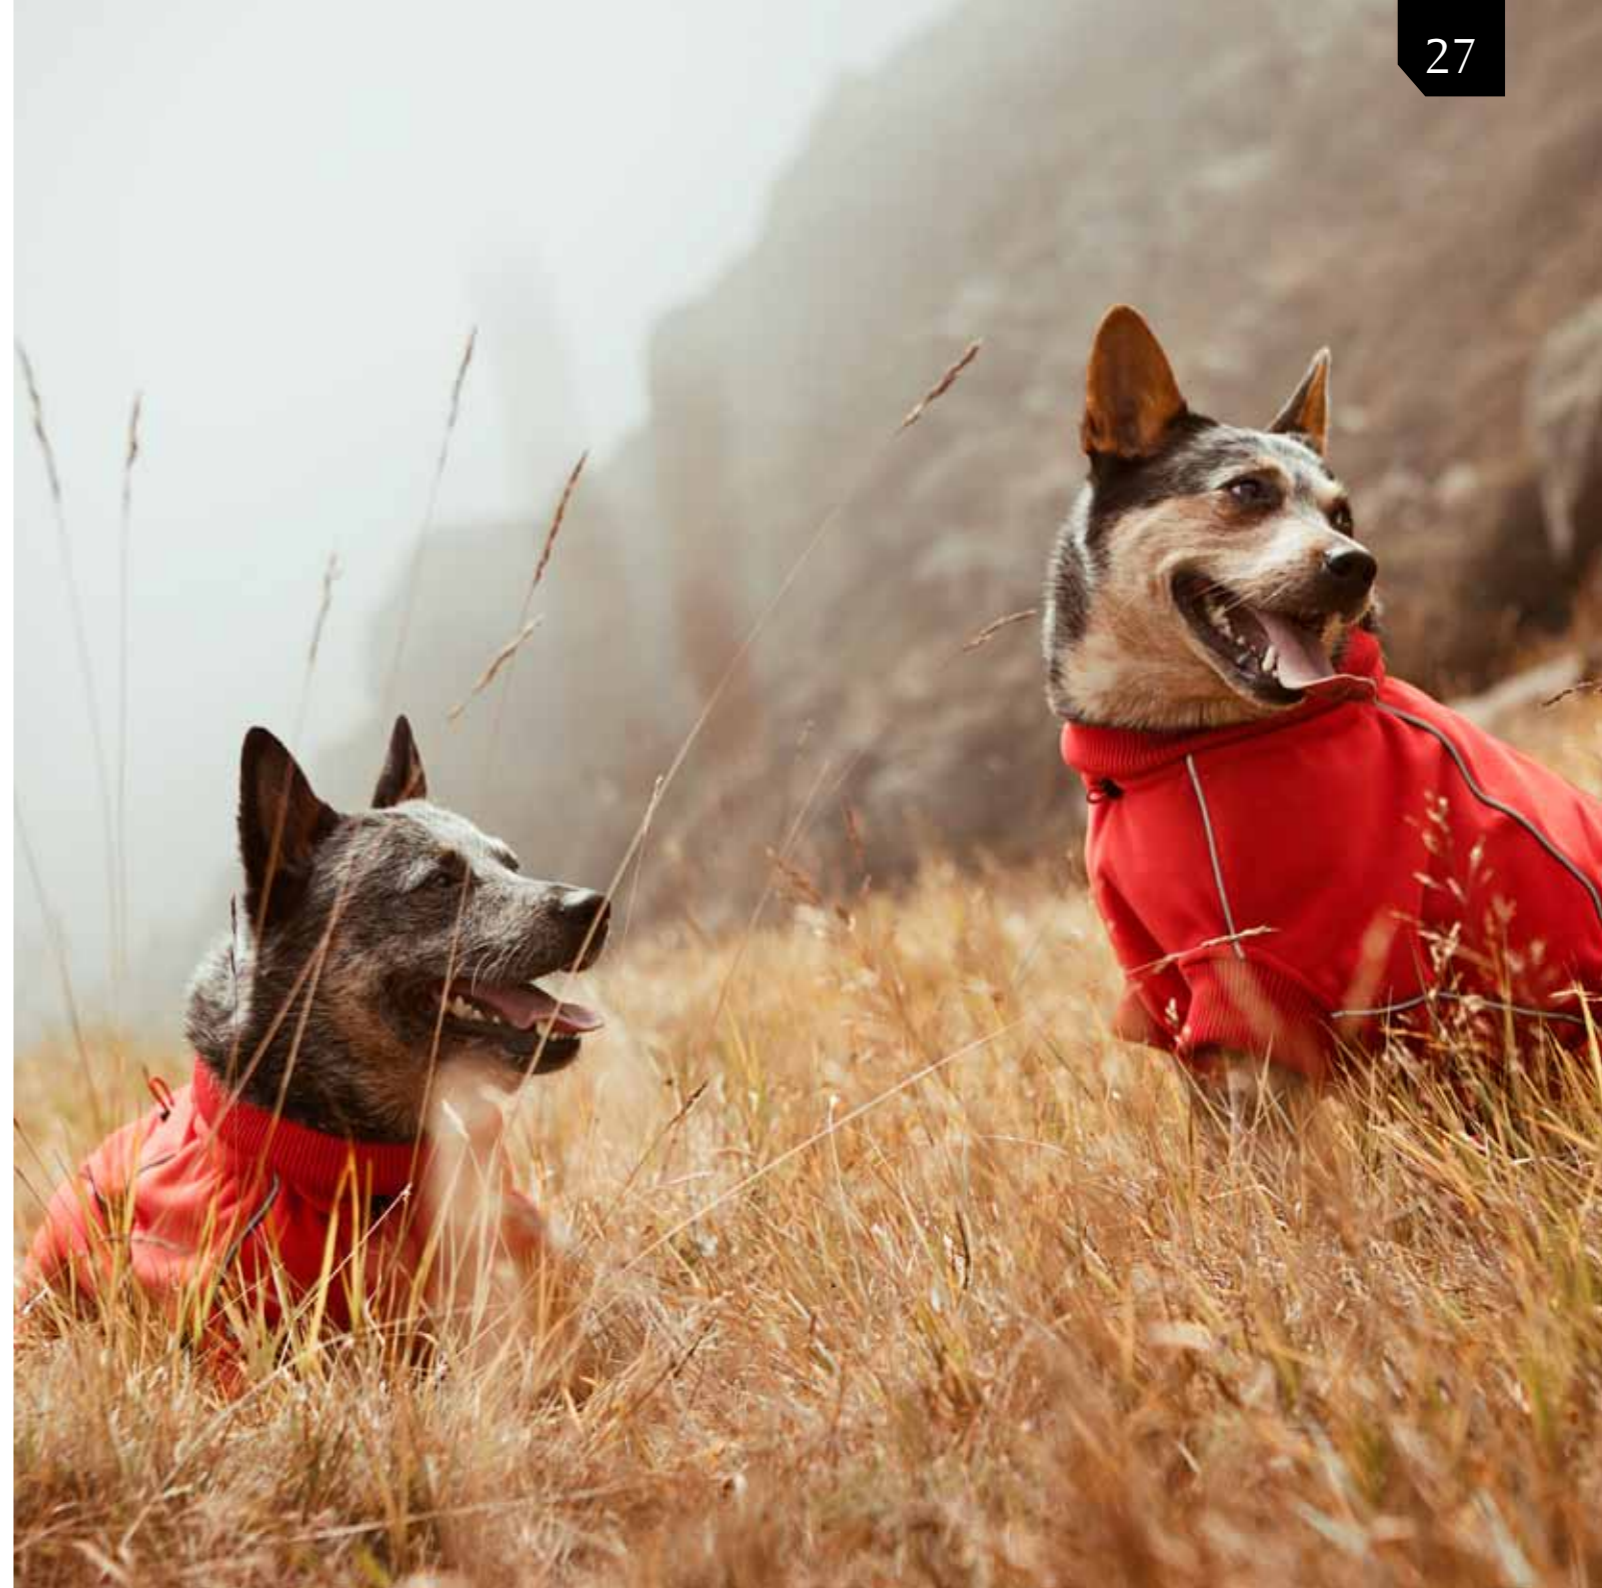

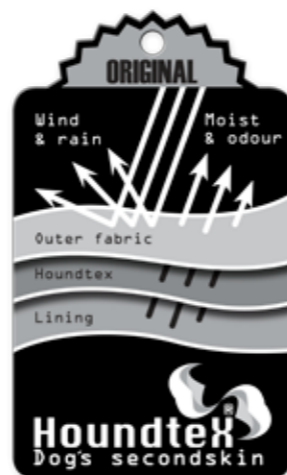

The dirt- and water-resistance and breathability of Houndtex® laminated outdoor fabrics match those of high-quality outdoor outfits designed for people. The materials approved for use in the Hurta Outdoors collection were developed for especially demanding conditions and heavy wear, making them perfect for outdoor canine activities.

Caring for Hurta garments

All Hurta outfits and equipment are washable. When kept well, they will endure regular use for several years. Recommended washing guidelines are included in the care instructions for each garment. Always follow the care recommendations given. Washing the garment at the wrong temperature, fast spinning or tumble-drying may harm the taping of the seams or other details of the garment. Avoid using fabric conditioners, as they impair the water-resistance of the Houndtex® coating.

Dog garments are recommended to be washed inside out using mild and allergy-friendly detergents.

All Hurta Houndtex® products are water- and dirt-resistant. Over time, heavy wear and washing may weaken the products' water-resistance, which is easy to restore with protective agents sold in sporting goods stores.
